Kaito: Welcome to our house. Nice to meet you. I'm Kaito.

Emma: Hi, Kaito. I'm Emma. I work with your father in Tokyo.

Kaito: I heard about you from him. A

Emma: For two years.

Kaito: How is your life there?

Emma: Not too bad. It's very convenient to live in Tokyo. However, I sometimes feel tired in my daily life there.

Kaito: Why? I want to live in Tokyo someday.

Emma: I think it's a good place to live, but there are too many people. So I sometimes want to enjoy nature.

Kaito: Well, I think life in Gunma is good for you, Emma. What do you think, Dad?

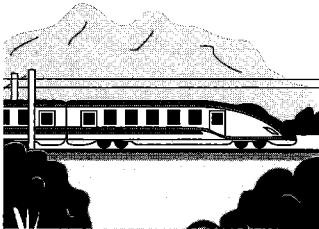

Kaito's father: I think so, too. Look at this website. Gunma was chosen as the most popular place to *relocate in Japan!

● Good *Childcare Support

Kaito: Oh, beautiful nature is one of the reasons for choosing to relocate to Gunma.

Emma: If I felt nature around my area, I would feel happy. Also, it's good to be able to get to Tokyo easily.

Kaito's father: Yes. I go to Tokyo from Takasaki every day by Shinkansen. It takes only about an hour. An hour is not so long for me.

Kaito: I see. By the way, I hear that Gunma *provides childcare support.

Kaito's father: That's right. So the families with children are interested in relocating to Gunma. For example, in Gunma, if you're eighteen years old or younger, you can see a doctor *for free. This is very *appealing to us.

Kaito: I see. Emma, what do you think about the other reasons?

Emma: Well, I don't want to worry about the *risk of natural disasters.

Kaito's father: Gunma has the lowest risk of earthquakes *happening in the Kanto Area.

Emma: I think that also makes Gunma appealing. Gunma has *not only beautiful nature but also other good things. Now, I really want to relocate to Gunma!

Kaito: B Emma, the food made in Gunma is also nice. Today, let's eat them together!

6 次の英文は、中学生のRyotaが「自分たちの学校をより良くするために取り組んだこと」について英語の授業で発表したものです。これを読んで、後の(1)~(3)の問いに答えなさい。

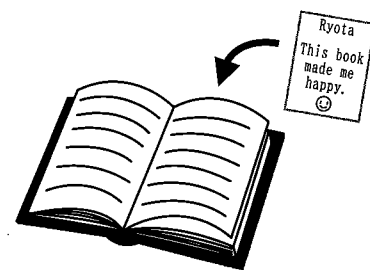

I like reading and I often go to the school library. I usually see only a few students there. One day, I thought, "Why do only a few students come here? The library has many good books, but students are not interested in them." Then, I asked the *librarian, Ms. Sato, about it. She said, "Students use the Internet more *these days. On the Internet, they can read stories or *search for information they need easily. If they keep using the Internet for these reasons, the library will not be used much in the future."

I was sad to hear that and said to my friend, Haruto, "I want to do something to make the library more *lively." Haruto thought *for a moment and said, "If students know more about books, they will be interested in them. Then, they will come to the library." I liked his idea, so we decided to start a *project, "Lively Library".

First, we made a list of books which were popular among young people. Then, we *put it on the wall of the library. However, only a few students *paid attention. So we made more lists and put them on the walls in the *hallway. We thought more students would see them when they were walking to their classes. But still, many students didn't read them. I felt sad, but Haruto said, "Let's try again. We can find a better way."

We went to Ms. Sato *for advice. We asked our friends, too. Then, we had a new idea. We made message cards. On these cards, we wrote short messages like "This book made me happy," or "I learned a lot from this story," with our names. Then we asked other students to make message cards, too. Some students wrote messages with small pictures on the cards. We *pasted them on the lists in the hallway. Our lists looked *richer than before. Also, we chose one interesting message card for each book. We put it inside the book. We wanted students to look at the card and to be interested in the book. During lunch time, we talked about our project to the other students and asked them to visit the library.

Soon, more students came to the school library to see the books. One student read a message inside a book and said, "This sounds interesting. I want to read this book." Another student found a book that her best friend read and said, "I want to talk about the book with her after I read it." A few days later, Ms. Sato said to us, "More students are visiting the library these days. Also, students have borrowed more books since you started your project. Your idea was great." We were really happy to hear that. Through this project, I've learned that even a small idea can help people change their actions. I hope our school library will be more lively.
